Defendants.

1 Plaintiff, by and through counsel, offers this Reply to Defendant CNMI Public School
 2 System’s (“PSS”) Response to Plaintiff’s Motion to Compel.<sup>1</sup> In responding to Plaintiff’s
 3 concerns regarding their discovery responses, Defendants offer no substantive authority (be it 4 binding or persuasive) and rely solely upon interpretations of the Federal Rules that, if 5 followed, would result in a chaotic, drawn-out and much more expensive trial of this matter.

6 Firstly, Defendants continue to refuse to specifically identify which documents they will 7 use to support specific factual allegations. This issue has been fully briefed in Plaintiff’s first 8 Motion to Compel and Plaintiff will rest upon her arguments and authorities contained therein.<sup>2</sup>

9 Next, both Defendants chafe at the Federal Rule 33(b)(1)’s requirement that “[e]ach
 10 interrogatory shall be answered separately and fully in writing.” This is not, as Mr. Brewer 11 contends, “a technical violation of the rules”<sup>3</sup>, but rather a requirement imposed to ensure that 12 responses to Interrogatories do not risk confusion. See generally Scaife v. Boenne, 191 F.R.D.
 13 590, 594 (N.D.Ind. 2000). A black-letter reading of the Rules of Civil Procedure requires each
 14 interrogatory to have a separate and independent answer. Id. For instance, PSS, in its answer 15 to Interrogatory No. 6 of Plaintiff’s Second Set of Interrogatories says “[s]ee response to 16 Interrogatory No. 6.”<sup>4</sup> How can an interrogatory response refer to itself? This is precisely the 17 type of confusion that is generated by providing cross-referenced and defendant interrogatory
 18 responses as opposed to the independent and individual responses. Defendants should answer 19 Plaintiff’s interrogatories as the Rules intend, with separate, complete answers.

20 Additionally, PSS complains that it does not have any additional documentation related 21 to grants received by its employees from the Governor’s office other than that it has already

22
 23<sup>1</sup> While Plaintiff can find no allowance in LR 16.2CJ(d)(1) for any response to Plaintiff’s discovery motion
 24 without first securing leave of Court, Defendants has filed responses to which Plaintiff must reply so that the 25 record is clear. To that end, Plaintiff offers this Reply should the Court decide to entertain more briefing than the 26 original Motion itself (as is the practice under LR 16.2CJ(d)(1)). For the sake of brevity, Plaintiff will limit her 27 Reply to 2 pages considering this Court’s two-page limit for discovery motion memoranda.

28<sup>2</sup> Mr. Brewer now contends that this will impermissibly reveal his attorney’s trial strategy, but does not tell 29 anyone how that could be. As has been previously briefed, specifically identifying what documents will support 30 specific factual contentions is proper for disclosure. Mr. Brewer’s secret trial strategies will be safe.

1 provided Plaintiff.<sup>5</sup> PSS, however, only speaks of the documentation regarding these grants
 2 that Hopwood administrators gathered.<sup>6</sup> Additionally, PSS never confirms that what it has 3 produced is all that it has in its possession that is responsive to this request.<sup>7</sup> If the grant 4 documentation from Hopwood produced by PSS is all that it (as an organization) has in its 5 possession, so be it. However, if there is more in its possession, whether some or all that 6 exists, it should produce those documents to Plaintiff. Either way, Plaintiff deserves resolution 7 of this issue.

8 Finally, and most troubling, are Defendants' refusal to address questions regarding 9 evidentiary issues of admissibility.<sup>8</sup> Both Defendants refuse to respond to interrogatories and 10 documents requests that seek to determine what documents they will attempt to admit into 11 evidence and what objections to admissibility they may have to documents they have produced
 12 to Plaintiff.<sup>9</sup> While Rule 26(a)(3)(C) does speak of a deadline of thirty (30) days before trial, 13 this is only so "[u]less otherwise directed by the court." This case has proven to be very 14 document intensive with over 2,000 pages of documents produced. Certainly, disposing of 15 questions of admissibility and objections to proposed evidence should be handled up front so 16 that the trial process can proceed more smoothly. Since Defendants recognize that such work 17 will have to be done anyway, better it be accomplished now and not during the final hectic weeks before trial.

18 Respectfully submitted this 22nd day of August, 2006:

 24 <sup>5</sup> PSS Response at 2-3.

26 <sup>7</sup> PSS says at 3 that it is "not in possession of information regarding all grants." Does this mean that it is in 27 possession of some information regarding some grants? Plaintiff is left to wonder.

28 <sup>8</sup> See PSS Response at 3 and Mr. Brewer's Opposition at 2.
